Director's Message

Nils Walle

Director & CEO

Hey X2 Family,

Hope you're all recharged because the second half of 2025 is moving fast, and we're not slowing down.

We've just opened registration for the X2 Conference 2026 in Antalya, and if Pattaya taught us anything, it's that these spots will not last long. So whether you're coming for the business, the beach, or the beer (we see you), make sure you lock it in early.

But before Turkey... we've got business to handle across the map:

- WIFFA Expo, China (November)
- IICS, India (December)

We're not just attending. We're co-exhibiting, connecting, and showing the world how X2 members move.

Let's make this next chapter even bigger. More deals. More partnerships. More unforgettable nights that start with a handshake and end somewhere near a dance floor.

As always, thank you for being the pulse of this network. We've built something powerful and the best part? We're still just getting started.

See you out there.

2025: FREIGHT FORWARDING DOESN'T NEED ~~A BAND AID,~~ IT NEEDS A POWER DRILL

Nils Walle
Director & CEO

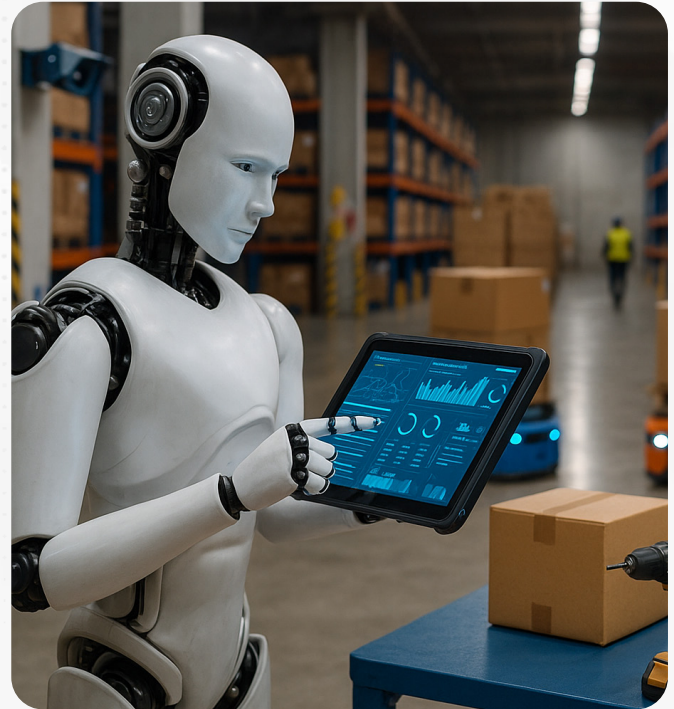

2025: Freight Forwarding Doesn't Need a Band-Aid, It Needs a Power Drill

Let's stop pretending this industry can fix itself with another "digital platform" or "leveraging synergy." Freight forwarding in 2025 is at a crossroads and the direction we choose could make or break SMEs.

1. AI & Automation: Real Gains, Real Limits

In warehouses and docs departments, AI isn't sci-fi anymore, it's saving real time and real money. Optical Character Recognition and NLP now streamline documentation; predictive analytics cuts forecasting errors by 20–50 %, and route optimization tools reduce fuel costs and delays. Generative AI is handling basic quotes and replies to all tabletop wins for SMEs with limited budgets.

But let's be blunt: full automation isn't happening next month. Most SMEs can't afford robotic fleet upgrades, smart ports, or digital twins. AI helps but don't buy the hype that it'll replace your service ethic. It's an enabler, not a substitute.

2. Trade Frictions & Geopolitics: Disrupting Demand, Not Diplomacy

The U.S.–China trade cold war isn't cooling. Hong Kong saw 41% of sailings to North America canceled in May and forwarders got hit hard. Across Asia-U.S. lanes, spot rates have plunged 58% to West Coast, 46% to East Coast since June, due to overcapacity and re-routing chaos. That means lower margins and more headaches, especially when blanked sailings ambush your clients.

SMEs are living the dual-supply-chain reality: U.S. sourcing counters risk, Asia-Europe carve-outs try diversifying, friend-shoring shifts manufacturing but complexity kills clarity.

3. Generational Change & Talent Shortage: Robots Don't Fix Culture

Automation is sexy. But who's watching the shipment, cuddling the client, or navigating customs when things go sideways? Talent remains the real chokepoint. Experienced operators retire, Gen Z doesn't wait tables for "customs clearance" and internal training programs are nonexistent.

If your human capital isn't future-proofed, AI becomes irrelevant. And before you lament robotics cost, remember: human burnout is far more expensive.

4. Economic Slowdown: Rates Fall, Pressure Rises

With global demand stagnating and capacity growing, margins are under siege. The Freight Forwarding market is valued at USD 178 billion in 2025 with projected growth to USD 249.8 billion by 2034 at just 3.8% CAGR. Logistics execs are seeing shrinking rate cards while operating costs like: fuel, labour, compliance creep upward.

Translation: there's less pie to cut, and every slice is already under pressure.

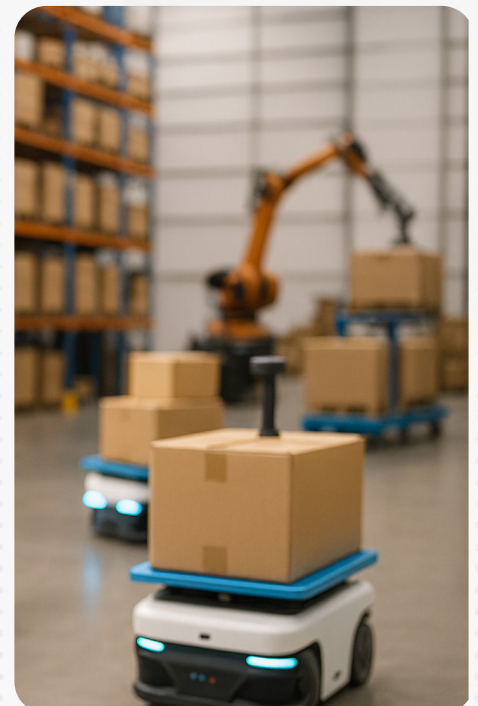

5. Customer Expectations & Service Innovation: Experience as Differentiator

In a commodity market, experience is your edge. Clients expect live tracking, razor-sharp transparency, proactive alerts, and curated service. AI tools now power chatbots, virtual assistants, and real-time visibility but as SMEs we must adopt selectively: start small, pick tools that integrate with your workflow, then scale with intent.

Bottom-line perspective for SME forwarders:

- Plug in AI tools for low-cost wins: doc automation, better quoting, predictive tracking.
- Train and retain the human capital that robots can't replicate.
- Diversify lanes and suppliers dual-chain sourcing isn't a buzzword anymore.
- Differentiate on service, not price. Experience is the moat MNCs can't easily replicate.

This isn't pie-in-the-sky futurism. It's about surviving in a broken global system and then, maybe, fixing it enough to claim your share. Enjoy the Newsletter :)

MAXIMIZING YOUR X2 MEMBERSHIP: MORE THAN JUST A NETWORK

Melvin Xavier
Director

Maximizing Your X2 Membership: More Than Just a Network

In today's fast-paced world of logistics, simply being part of a network is not enough. At X2, we've built more than just a directory of members; we have created a living, breathing ecosystem where opportunity meets accountability, where technology fuels connection, and where generosity sets the tone.

The truth is, your membership is only as powerful as the way you choose to use it. So today, I want to share with you five ways you can maximize your time with X2 and unlock the full potential of what's available to you.

1. Make the Dashboard Your Daily Companion

Our dashboard is not just another digital tool; it is your cockpit. Too many members use it only on the surface, but real power lies beneath:

- Upload freight invoices: Doing so gives you peace of mind with financial protection and allows us to step in when necessary.
- Check FPS status: Always know who's fully protected before you work with them.
- Review member ratings: A score that reflects reliability, payment behaviour, and community engagement.
- Celebrate & stay accountable: Leaderboards highlight activity, and awards at our conferences mirror this data.

Think of the dashboard as your safety net, your mirror, and your megaphone- all in one place.

2. X2 Pay: The Smarter Way to Transact

Money moves fast in freight and X2 Pay is designed to move with it. With zero transaction fees, ease of use, and growing adoption (20% of members already onboard), it's one of the most powerful tools in your arsenal. Members who've embraced it know: once you use it, you won't go back.

3. Go Global with Us

When we said we'd take X2 global, we meant it. From Ningbo to Mumbai, São Paulo to Munich, our presence at Expos isn't just about brand building, it's about creating visibility for you. Members who co-exhibit with us don't just get a table; they get a stage, an audience, and the credibility of standing alongside a brand recognized worldwide.

Insights

4. Tell Your Story, Amplify Your Brand

Your company has a story worth telling and we want the world to hear it. With X2's strong presence across LinkedIn, Instagram, Facebook, and YouTube, your successes, collaborations, and news can reach far beyond your local market. Share them with us, and let's turn your wins into community inspiration.

5. The Power of Giving: The Heart of X2

Perhaps the most important point of all: give before you expect to receive. Too often, I hear members asking, "What's in this for me?" My question back is always, "What have you given?"

Giver's Gain is not just a philosophy; it's a way of life. Contributions don't have to be monumental; even a compliment, a helping hand, or a shared lead counts. The magic is that when you give selflessly, the universe has a way of multiplying the return. This is the culture I want every member in X2 to embrace.

Your Membership, Your Move

The tools, the platforms, the opportunities... They are all here. But the real difference lies in how you use them. X2 is not a spectator sport; it's a community built on participation, trust, and generosity.

So ask yourself: Am I just a member of X2, or am I truly maximizing my membership?

Because at the end of the day, the more you give, the more you grow... and together, the stronger our network becomes.

Happy networking!

SUCCESSION PLANNING BEST PRACTICES FOR SME FORWARDERS

Christian Raeuber
Director

Succession Planning Best Practices for SME Forwarders

Most small and medium-sized freight forwarders are built by hands-on founders who manage everything from sales and operations to crisis resolution. But without a clear succession plan, all that know-how, reputation, and business continuity can vanish in an instant.

According to PwC's 2024 Family Business Survey, only 34% of SMEs globally have a formal succession plan. In an industry like freight forwarding, where relationships and local expertise are critical, lack of planning can leave the business vulnerable.

Here are the top succession planning best practices for SME forwarders to ensure continuity and long-term success:

1. Start Early and Strategically

Don't wait for retirement or emergencies. Begin planning 3 to 5 years in advance to allow mentorship, smooth delegation, and confidence building for both staff and clients.

2. Systematize Your Know-How

Most SME forwarders run on tribal knowledge stored in heads, not systems. Use AI-powered knowledge bases such as Notion AI, Trainual, or Slite to document SOPs, pricing logic, tradeline strategies, agent preferences, and customer service protocols. Tools like ChatGPT Enterprise or Claude can help structure your internal playbooks using natural language, making knowledge easily accessible to successors.

3. Build an Internal IP System

Use platforms like Confluence, Guru, or Obsidian to store your intellectual property including negotiation tactics, credit policies, rate markup strategies, carrier insights, and network contacts. These platforms support tagging, access control, and AI-assisted search to surface critical knowledge instantly.

4. Identify and Develop Key Talent

Whether it's a family member or trusted employee, start giving them ownership of accounts, meetings, and decisions. Gradually transfer responsibility and let clients and agents get familiar with the next-in-line.

5. Clarify the Founder's Role Post-Transition

Will the founder stay on as a mentor, exit entirely, or retain board-level oversight? Defining this avoids post-transition power struggles or confusion.

6. Communicate Transparently with Clients and Partners

Clients need to know service and relationships won't change. Gradual handovers, joint account calls, and visibility of the new leader help build trust in the transition.

7. Legal and Financial Structuring

Engage legal and financial experts to create shareholder agreements, exit clauses, tax-efficient ownership transfers, and retirement funding mechanisms that protect both the business and founder.

8. Plan for Emergencies

Have a short-term contingency plan with access to banking, contracts, and communication channels in case of sudden illness or death. Store passwords securely using tools like 1Password or Bitwarden, with controlled emergency access.

9. Preserve the Company Culture and Identity

Document your company's mission, tone of service, and approach to clients so future leaders maintain continuity. An AI assistant trained on your internal documentation can serve as a company-wide advisor for new staff.

10. Use Peer Networks for Case Studies and Benchmarks

Within communities like X2 Logistics Networks, forwarders can access examples of successful transitions, learn from peers, and even collaborate on leadership mentoring programs.

The Takeaway

Succession is not just about choosing the next leader. It's about transferring knowledge, values, and systems. With AI-powered documentation and proactive leadership development, SME forwarders can build businesses that outlast any individual and remain competitive for decades to come.

Translog Overseas Critical AOG Shipment of Aircraft Engines

The first task of Translog Overseas, our X2 Elite member, was to get the best option to depart from origin to destination. They concluded that the best way to offer their clients is to depart from ZAZ airport and hire Qatar Airways to ship to Hong Kong them on a freighter route.

Origin: Iberia Airlines Madrid Headquarters

Commodity: Aircraft Engines

Cargo details: 420 x 250 x 250 cm 5000 KG / 1

420 x 250 x 250 cm 5000 KG / 1

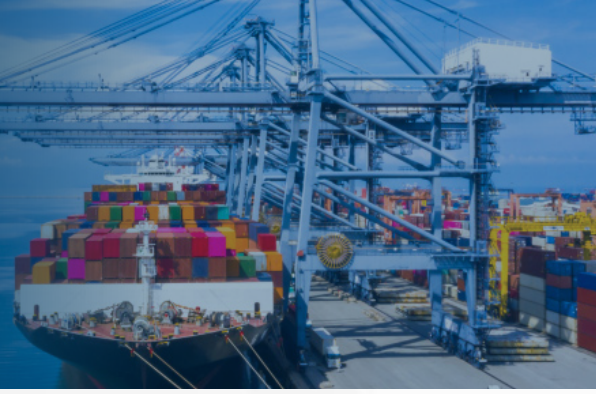

Shipping route: Madrid - Hong Kong

Due to the dimensions of both engines, we need to arrange a special truck that could fit both without any issues during the road transport from shipper's facilities to the airport to guarantee the complete security of these 2 engines. Both engines were uplifted with a special machine that could load both, keeping all protected to get inside of the truck. We have also tied both engines to the truck floor with special hooks.

Magnum Cargo(Mauritius) Seamless International Shipment of Amphibious Boat

MAGNUM CARGO, our X2 Elite member and partner in Mauritius, has successfully managed the international shipment of an amphibious boat from Mauritius to Auckland, New Zealand, showcasing its logistical expertise and commitment to precision handling. The boat, measuring 6.3 meters in length and 2.10 meters in width with a payload capacity of 700 kilograms, was shipped via a 40-foot Full Container Load (FCL) for private use in Auckland.

The operation began with the careful loading of the boat onto a flatbed crane lorry, which transported it to MAGNUM CARGO's warehouse. There, the team completed the container stuffing, ensuring the vessel was securely lashed for sea transit. One of the main challenges was the tight fit of the boat within the container, requiring extra care when lowering the windscreen using its hydraulic system to meet the height restrictions.

Despite these constraints, the MAGNUM CARGO team executed the operation smoothly within three days. The shipment is now en route to Auckland Port, with an estimated sea transit time of 25 days. This project highlights MAGNUM CARGO's ability to handle non-standard cargo with care and efficiency, offering tailored freight solutions that ensure every shipment arrives safely no matter the complexity or distance.

Excellent work Patrick Meyepa and team!

Achyutam Logistics Executes Successful Breakbulk Movement from India to the UAE

We're proud to spotlight Shailendra Kumar and Achyutam Logistics team for the successful handling of a complex Breakbulk cargo movement from India to the United Arab Emirates.

The project involved 14 packages, including 3 x 40' Flat Rack units, with the heaviest piece weighing 28.8 metric tons and dimensions reaching up to 11.6m (L) x 3.9m (W) x 4.45m (H). Despite the challenges of oversize and heavy cargo, the team ensured safe loading, secure handling, and on-schedule delivery, reinforcing their expertise in managing demanding project shipments with precision and care.

Congratulations to the Achyutam Logistics team for another job well done. This achievement highlights the strength and reliability of our project cargo professionals across the X2 network.

Historical Milestone in Malaysian Logistics by Synergy Worldwide

Synergy Worldwide, X2 Elite members are proud to announce that they have officially become the first-ever customs broker in Malaysian history to successfully clear a live pig shipment through Port Klang! A total of 800 live pigs were imported and cleared under our coordination and despite it being their first time handling livestock clearance, their team delivered a smooth operation with minimal hiccups during truck gate-out.

From 9:00 PM to 6:00 AM, their dedicated operations team worked tirelessly through the night to ensure every requirement was met and every animal handled with care. This marks not only a significant step for them, but also opens new doors in Malaysia's import logistics capabilities for live animals. First in history. Seamless execution. Ready for the next challenge.

Excellent work Daniel Chew and team!

Vector Global Logistics: A Climb for a Cause

At the end of this month, Kieran Purtill, son of a valued team member at Vector Global Logistics, will embark on a deeply personal and physically demanding journey: summiting Mount Kilimanjaro, Africa's highest peak.

This climb is more than a test of endurance; it is a heartfelt tribute to his mother, who sadly passed away from leukemia earlier this year. Kieran's mission is to honor her memory while raising awareness and support for those affected by blood cancers.

Vector Global Logistics is proud to stand behind Kieran's inspiring effort by sponsoring part of his climb and contributing to his chosen charity, the Leukemia and Lymphoma Society, an organization making a lasting impact in the fight against leukemia, lymphoma, and related diseases.

This meaningful endeavor has also received generous support from like-minded partners. We extend our sincere thanks to Tive, Turtle Fur, and The Leisure Collective for stepping up and supporting this important cause.

We applaud your strength, spirit, and dedication, and we stand united in the hope of a future without blood cancer, from all of us X2!

Fleet Line Shipping Successfully Loads Pilot Boat

Dubai-based project logistics specialist Fleet Line Shipping (FLS) has successfully completed the loading and shipment of a pilot boat from Abu Dhabi to Africa, marking another milestone in the company's growing portfolio of complex marine transport operations.

The vessel, measuring 22.70 x 6.60 x 8.10 meters and weighing 75 tons, required precise handling and coordination due to its size and structural sensitivity. CEEKAY Executes Breakbulk Cargo Movement from UAE to Upper Gulf

CEEKAY has successfully completed the complex transportation of approximately 1600 freight tons of breakbulk cargo from Jebel Ali, UAE, to the Upper Gulf. The shipment was executed by our X2 projects on an EXW basis via a geared breakbulk vessel, with services encompassing comprehensive route and cargo surveys, meticulous transport planning, and real-time project reporting. This door-to-port operation required precise coordination to handle out-of-gauge (ODG) packages, with the largest measuring 13.5 x 4.8 x 5.1 meters and weighing 43 tons.

The scope of the project included managing overwide and over height cargo, securing police and escort permissions, and navigating road transport through Sharjah and Dubai. One of the major challenges faced was ensuring that the cargo passed safely under bridges with a maximum height restriction of 5.5 meters. In addition, customs inspection delays arose due to the shipment originating from a Free Zone, involving duty deposit and refund procedures, which CEEKAY's team navigated efficiently.

Despite these logistical and regulatory hurdles, CEEKAY delivered the project with precision and timeliness, reaffirming its reputation for handling complex industrial cargo. The successful execution, coupled with high-quality project documentation and client reporting, showcases CEEKAY's continued commitment to operational excellence in the breakbulk and project logistics sector.

We are proud to recognize our esteemed member Ceekay team for the successful completion of a complex breakbulk movement!
